Health

appointments

more as Leeds restaurant chain Casa Mia has adopted New Sight as its charity for the year.

A special New Sight pasta dish has been devised and £1 from each dish sold at Casa Mia Millennium in Leeds city centre and at Casa Mia in Chapel Allerton will go to the charity. Other fundraising plans include a charity dinner at Casa Mia Millennium on November 10. Francesco Mazzella, owner of the Casa Mia restaurants, said: "As a family man with three children I can empathise with the courage it must take to move your family to an unfamiliar country, and give up many of your home comforts. "Henri and Joyce are doing all this to help other people regain their sight and quality of life. My wife Marta and I cannot think of a worthier cause to support and we are excited at the prospect of helping them achieve their goal."

Joyce said: "It's wonderful and humbling to have the support of the Casa Mia restaurants, Having them as a charity partner will help to raise awareness for the desperate need in the Congo. 'We are an ordinary family living in Leeds who felt that something must be done to help people in that country. For a relatively small outlay, peoples' sight can be restored and their world changed completely within a matter of days.

● To support the charity, visit www.samoutou.com, search for New Sight on Facebook, follow @ newsightcong on Twitter or email info@samoutou.com.

katie.baldwin@ypn.co.uk

Cataracts clinic comes to Leeds

PATIENTS in the UK are waiting longer for cataracts treatment, according to new research.

The survey of GPs found almost a third admitted that patients will now have to wait for their eyesight to deteriorate even further before they can be referred to the NHS as a fifth said they were changing the criteria for referrals. The average patient will be waiting an additional 15 weeks for NHS treatment.

Vision correction specialist Ultralase commissioned the report to tie in with National Cataracts Awareness Week.

Television doctor Dr Chris Steele, ambassador for the week, said: "A cataract is a very serious condition that will affect all of us as we get older, so it's concerning to see the referral process becoming even stricter in so many GP practices. It's estimated that over half of those over 65 will have some level of cataract, in one or both eyes, and as the deterioration is so gradual it can be hard to gauge just how badly your vision has become.

Ultralase is hosting a one-day Cataracts Clinic at Audley Clevedon Retirement Village in Ilkley tomorrow. The pop-up clinic will be open from noon until 5pm offering free screenings, advice and information.

Bringing hope to the slums

have changed the lives of people in India - including a man who had been walking on a fractured hip for two vears

The medics treated more than 8,000 sick people from the state of Punjab at a camp run by the Slum Doctor charity. Many have now received operations at a local hospital the charity has partnered with.

Leeds-based honorary consultant rheumatologist Prof Dennis McGonagle ioined their mission after being brought on board by friend and Slum Doctor director Dr Vijay Bangar. Over three days he saw 130

"In the 20 years I have been practising medicine I have never seen such advanced cases of arthritis," he said. "Many of the people I saw arrived on stretchers. One woman in her 30s was completely bent over and unable to sit upright. The only treatment she had received so far was with high doses of steroids which had created more health problems for her.

"Another man struggled into the clinic on a zimmer frame and looked like he had advanced hip arthritis. When I examined him it turned out he had been walking on a fractured hip for two years. We confirmed this on X-ray and arranged for surgery, both which were provided by the Slum Doctor project. "The poverty is such that many patients with mild arthritis could not even afford simple painkillers. We were able to give them a month's supply of Ibuprofen. We also listed 20 cases for joint replacement therapy at the local hospital and the patients we saw with rheumatoid arthritis we put on a long-term treatment

He is planning to join the charity's camp in India next March.

"It has been an amazing experience for me personally which has made me incredibly grateful for what I have, for the NHS, and the amazing facilities that we have here at Leeds Teaching Hospitals. I feel like I'm doing something useful and making a difference. "I can also see Vijay's vision for Slum Doctor. As well as continuing with the medical camp, he is also setting up an orphanage and a school." During this year's threeday camp, the 30-strong team worked for up to 12 hours a day. They organised 300 eye operations, fitted 300 hearing aids and carried out 50 general and gynaecological operations, plus around 20 hip and knee operations.

Some patients had travelled for 100km or more, despite debilitating illnesses, to receive free healthcare in a country where many cannot afford treatment. Dr Bangar, a consultant diabetologist, said: "We see people in very difficult situations and we see things which have gone wrong." He said there were good surgeons in India, but people needed money to see them. The charity gets these doctors to work at its camps and also passes on skills from UK doctors to Indian medics Dr Bangar said he was always struck by the situations patients were forced to live with. "Anyone who has had a hip fracture will know how painful that is. Imagine being in that situation for three years where the bone has just dissolved away."

HEALTHCARE MISSION: Professor Dennis McGonagle, Honorary Consultant Rheumatologist at Leeds Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust, treating a woman in India as part of the Slum Doctor project

● To support the project, visit www.slumdoctor. co.uk, find "slumdoctor project" on Facebook, call 07964 999747 or write to PO Box 769, Halifax, HX1

LEARN TO COOK A FABULOUS A LA CARTE MEAL AT MALMAISON

ONLY 4 PLACES AVAILABLE

Join the Yorkshire Evening Post for a series of cooking classes in a live working kitchen at the awardwinning Malmaison with Head Chef Andy Lawson.

Classes will run over 3 weeks, covering a 3 course meal.

WEEK 1 - THURSDAY 8th SEPTEMBER 2011

You will Learn to cook Grilled Tiger Prawns, Coriander and Crisp Shallot Noodle Salad, Lime and Chilli Vinaigrette. Once prepared you will dine in the restaurant and enjoy a 2 course meal, which will be the starter you have just prepared and the main dish which you'll cook next week, Crisp Duck Breast, Carrot and Orange Puree, Spinach and Fondant Potato.

WEEK 2 - THURSDAY 15th SEPTEMBER 2011

You will learn to cook Crisp Duck Breast, Carrot and Orange Puree, Spinach and Fondant Potato, once prepared you will dine in the restaurant and enjoy a 2 course meal, which will be the main course which you've just prepared and the dessert Lemon Posset, Blackberry Compote.

WEEK 3 - THURSDAY 22nd SEPTEMBER 2011

You will learn to cook a Lemon Posset, Blackberry Compote and then once prepared you will dine in the restaurant and a enjoy a 2 course meal. The main course will be the chefs choice and you can enjoy the dessert you have just prepared.

This amazing opportunity to learn to cook from one of Leeds' finest chefs is ONLY £209.58

Cooking classes start on Thursday 8th September 2011. To book contact Kara Jordan on 0113 238 8515 or Rebecca Almond on 0113 238 8082

